DESCRIPTION

This chalice in borosilicate glass was designed by Francesco Paretti and its was mouth blown. It consists of a single pipe of hollow glass, hence obtaining the unique effect of being filled with liquid starting from its base. The chromatic results are quite striking, depending on the drink of choice. This piece is ideal for red wines, but is also suitable for sparkling whites, since its shape helps the development of the fine bubbles that will run all the way from the bottom to the top.
