DESCRIPTION

The uniqueness of this sideboard is best seen in its natural cracks, as singular as a genetic code, that follow the natural grooves and nodes of the durmast wood and become a distinctive decorative element. This striking sideboard has two large, deep drawers, a side storage area with a swinging door, and an adjustable internal shelf. The warmth of the wood contrasts with the austere frame finished in a concrete-like effect. Handcrafted by skilled artisans, this unique piece cannot be mass-produced, because each piece is hand cut following the natural veins of the wood. An eclectic piece that will add elegance to a contemporary decor.
