OSAKA BLUE SOFA BY PIERRE PAULIN

$6,770

DESCRIPTION

Designed in 1967 by Pierre Paulin, this captivating sofa challenged the dominant rationalism of the time with seductive curves in an organic aesthetic that was developed for the 1970 World Expo in Osaka, Japan. It is now edited by La Cividina in a modular piece that can create an endless solution for a modern home, adding a dash of color and layered texture. The padding is in fire-resistant polyurethane over a frame in steel. The elastic upholstery is removable and available in several colors. Please inquire with the Concierge for details and for a smaller version 230 cm long.
