DESCRIPTION

This eye-catching sofa is a modern take on both the Victorian Chesterfield style, with its low profile, deep bench cushion, and tufted back, and the Louis XVI fainting chair, with its scrolled back, originally designed as a respite for Victorian women wearing restrictive corsets. Made of solid wood covered with non-deformable polyurethane foam, it is upholstered in a vivid cerulean color and is supported by four black conical feet that add a modern touch. Suited for lounging and reading thanks to its inviting, soft design, it is a piece of strong visual impact that will be an original addition to a contemporary decor.
