SUPERONDA RED SOFA BY ARCHIZOOM

$5,960

DESCRIPTION

An iconic and astonishingly avant-garde design conceived in 1967 by Florentine radical group Archizoom, this sofa is the first sofa in the history of design to lack a conventional shell. Comprised of two waved elements cut from a single piece of polyurethane, covered with a polished red PVC-coated fabric, it can be arranged in various configurations to make it a chaise longue or daybed preferred. Exuding a sophisticated Pop inspiration, it is also available in black or white upon request.
