DESCRIPTION

Popular during the Art Nouveau fashion period, the shape of this striking ring embodies timeless elegance and exceptional craftsmanship. Taking the form of a serpent, the ring elegantly curls around the finger to create a dynamic look characterized by daring yet fluid lines. The natural finish of the bronze ring complements the brilliance of the central green tourmaline stone, flanked by two rodolite stones and accented by diamonds along the head and tail. A statement piece in any era, this fierce ring will transform any outfit with its bold simplicity.
